US3R993764	09-SEP-21_08:11:34	No.55167	^55166 I'm certainly not a political animal and would have no desire to be one, so perhaps it's understandable if I am drawn to similar conclusions to Mike Yeadon or Geert.
US3R435678	09-SEP-21_08:13:05	No.55168	^55167 A lot of people are just pointing their finger at the money. Figures like three trillion dollars for the big players. But eventually people would wake up, even the most trusting. If there is to be the 'right major crisis', then there has to be a sort of equivalent of the nukes in the basement of the World Trade Centre buildings. Something that kicks away the foundations, allowing the collapse to happen. Surely, the Covid 'injections' fit the bill? Destroy the core columns of people's health, as it were??
US3R993764	09-SEP-21_08:14:28	No.55169	^55168 So many lies have been told and so much truth has been ignored that i do agree, there has to be more to this than we can see. That being said, if the major blow is the injections, then that blow has already been delivered. Millions and millions of people in the west have willingly taken them, and as they are completely unnecessary, then I can't see a justifiable reason for their issue.
US3R435678	09-SEP-21_08:15:29	No.55170	^55169 Could it get out of control? If we assume that everyone who has taken it will become very ill, and most probably die, might we be facing a situation where there are unexpected consequences? Like a real pandemic?
US3R993764	09-SEP-21_08:15:59	No.55171	^55170 My concern has been the media's focus on a Greek alphabet of 'variants.' There are no variants, because there is no Covid-19 per se. The so-called variants and their Greek designations are a short cut to the letter/number sequence that describes the adverse reactions to the injections themselves. "Delta" and "Lambda" etc., do not refer to dangerous 'variants' spread by the uninjected, they refer to a sliding scale of damage to humans from the injections. I fear that as the list progresses, the symptoms will be increasingly bad, and God help us all if it ever gets to Omega.
US3R435678	09-SEP-21_08:19:02	No.55172	^55171 I find it hard to believe that there are no doctores willing, or even abl, to go mainstream. There must be a scientific precedent to support the original scientific discipline that is being ignored? Are the entire medical profession being gaslit, bribed or blackmailed?
US3R993764	09-SEP-21_08:21:12	No.55173	^55172 It seems that way, but the methods are more insidious. The healthcare workers that you see wandering the corridors of your local hospital are underpaid, misinformed and demoralised. They know not to ask questions, even when their common sense kicks in and they see what ois going on. Covid tests (the PCR variety) rarely leave the building for a testing centre. It's decided in advance how many 'cases' are to be found, and the figures conform to the advice of the experts groups. GPs are simply paid a ridiculous amount of money to stay at home and make phone calls three days a week. Easier money you or I will never make. The specialists are told not to worry about it and to attend to the schedules that they control, while the 'front of house' healthcare workers deal with the admin. It's a cross between blind ignorance, wilful ignorance and cynical indifference from people who don't view it as their problem.

US3R435678	09-SEP-21_08:23:31	No.55174	^55173 That's a terrible indictment of the Health Service. We've sunk so low that not only is it not fit for purpose, but it's actually dangerous.
US3R993764	09-SEP-21_08:25:11	No.55175	^55174 You can understand my anger then and why I feel the need to speak out. If the information is useful to anybody in trying to form a coherent world view at this terrible time, then I don't mind being the one to share it. It's incredibly disheartening that I can't speak openly and on the record. It really does feel like warfare.
