US3R833663	10-OCT-20_09:32:17	No.46217	There is science, and then there is 'official science.' As far as the public is concerned, knowledge of the two is mutually exclusive. A good example is when I inform people that wearing a mask is not only useless at protecting them from any virus, but it is also damaging for their health, and they quote the government and the government's advisers back at me. When I tell them I'm a doctor they become skittish and try to shut the conversation down.
US3R_CLYDE	10-OCT-20_09:35:22	No.46218	^46217 Is that cognitive dissonance? People don't read anymore and have difficulty becoming informed about anything meaningful.
US3R833663	10-OCT-20_09:36:44	No.46219	I think it's fear of being seen to disobey the government.
US3R276335	10-OCT-20_09:37:01	No.46220	^46218 I see that the Great Barrington Declaration has been censored by Google. Loads of hit pieces come up in the search results instead. Wow. It's right out there in the open.
